The Merry Little Contest to Decide Whether John F. Swift Shall Be Honored.

SACRAMENTO, Thursday, February 7, 1889.

A jolly little row, that has no direct expression, is pending upon the bill to appoint attorneys to go to Washington to appear in the Supreme Court in the case in which the Scott Exclusion Act will be tested. The eminent statesmen, Denis Kearney and "Dr." C. C. O'Donnell, brought hither and are advocating a bill designating John F. Swift and S. M. White as the special attorneys for the State, and appropriating $5000 for their services. The Senate added the Attorney General, and provided for the appropriation of $1500 for his expenses. Then the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means added W. W. Morrow, and provided for his payment. When the bill was considered in the Assembly an amendment was proposed to substitute Allen G. Thurman and W. W. Morrow for S. M. White and John F. Swift. A viva voce vote was taken upon the amendment, and farmer Howe declared it lost and refused to allow a roll call. Then further consideration of the bill was made a special order for a certain time.

In the mean time Governor Waterman telegraphed to several representatives of this State in Washington asking if they will appear in court as assistants to the United States Attorney General, and received affirmative replies from Senator Stewart of Alameda or Nevada, and Representatives McKenna, Morrow, and Vandever of California.

The jolly little fight seems to be whether John F. Swift shall be designated by the Legislature as special counsel for the State. In the meantime the date for hearing the case is approaching, and unless some action is taken very soon, no one will have time to go from this State and prepare to argue the case at the time fixed.

The ease with which divorces are obtained in this State was the topic of considerable comment in the Senate today during the consideration of Senator Pinder's amendment to the divorce law of the State. Senator Jones of Butte explained the bill in full, and after his lucid explanation, the bill was finally passed. The first change from the present law is that the trials of all actions for divorce must be held in the courtroom of the court in which the action is pending. Reference to the Court Commissioner, the common practice under the existing law, is not permitted by the Pinder act. If this bill pass the Assembly and be approved by the Governor, D. M. Conner will find his receipts from the fees of the Court Commissionership much less than he expected.

The bill then adds a new section, requiring the participation of the District Attorney in the trial. As the bill was first introduced it made the District Attorney a party to the suit, but this extraordinary provision is not repeated in a substitute bill, which is the one that passed the Senate. This new section is as follows:

Section 131. In every action for divorce, in addition to service of the summons upon the defendant as required by law, a copy of the summons and of the complaint in said action must, immediately after the issuance of summons, be served upon the District Attorney of the county in which the action is instituted, in the manner and in accordance with the provisions of section 1011 of the Code of Civil Procedure, who must be and appear personally or by deputy at the trial of said action; which said trial shall not proceed until ten days after the service of summons and complaint on the District Attorney as aforesaid, and it shall be the duty of such District Attorney to examine and cross-examine witnesses, address the court upon, any matter connected with the case to prevent fraud or collusion in such action, and to control the proceedings on the part of the defendant unless the court otherwise direct. Copies of all papers filed in the case, and written notice of all motions, and of the time and place of hearing the same, and of the trial of said action, must also be served upon the District Attorney. For such service the court shall allow to the District Attorney, for his own use and benefit, such compensation as the court, under all the circumstances, shall deem just; which compensation shall be paid by either or both of the parties to the action, as the court may determine. No decree or judgment shall be entered in said action until the compensation so allowed shall be paid.

When Senator Jones was explaining the purpose of the bill he said that the intention is to make divorce less easy and to correct the present law, which works about as follows: "A complaint is filed in the morning. An answer is filed fifteen or twenty minutes later. The case is immediately referred to a commissioner, who reports the same day. A divorce is granted, and by bed time each of the parties is married again."

The idea that the Senate contained no eloquence, an impression that obtained by reason of the quiet that prevailed during the first three weeks of the session has been thoroughly dissipated within the past few days. This afternoon the star debate was upon the bill making an appropriation for the State Mining bureau.

Senator Goucher led off the debate in favor of an appropriation of $150,000 for two years, the amount asked by the trustees of the bureau.

Senator Chandler of Santa Clara wanted the appropriation reduced to $60,000.

He was followed by the young Senator from Yuba and Sutter, Mr. Greely, the man who defeated C. P. Berry. Senator Greely made an exceedingly able and interesting speech in favor of making an appropriation of $150,000. Several good speeches were made and finally a compromise amendment fixing the sum at $100,000 was made and carried.

A bill before the Committee on City, City and County, and Township Governments of the Senate makes the following provisions relative to charges for water:

SECTION 1. Any corporation, association, company, or person furnishing water to any city and county, city, or town, or to the inhabitants thereof, for domestic or other use, shall charge fixed, equal, and uniform water rates to all their customers and consumers, and shall not charge, demand, or receive greater, increased, or different water rates from some or any of their customers or consumers than the water rates charged, demanded, or received from other customers and consumers, and shall not in water rates, or in any other way, or manner, favor or discriminate in favor of any customer or consumer.

Sec. 2. Any corporation, association, company, or person furnishing water to any city and county, city or town, or to the inhabitants thereof, for domestic or other use, shall not charge, demand, or receive from any customer or consumer water rates or water charges different or greater in amount of rate than that charged, demanded, or received from any other customer or consumer, and the water rate least in sum or amount charged, demanded, or received from any customer or consumer, shall be the maximum water rate, and no increase or greater rate shall be charged, demanded, or received from any customer or consumer.

Sec. 3. The Board of Supervisors of any city and county, city or town, the inhabitants of which are furnished with water for domestic or other use by any corporation, association, company, or person, shall fix and establish the water rates to be charged by such corporation, association, company, or person, at water rates not to exceed in sum or amount the lowest water rate charged, demanded, or received by said corporation, association, company, or person to or from any customer or consumer, and that the water rate or rates so fixed and established shall not be raised or increased.

Section 4. Any corporation, association, company or person who shall charge, demand, or receive from any customer or consumer any water rate in excess of the water rate charged, demanded or received from any other customer or consumer, or who shall violate any of the provisions of this Act, on complaint thereof made by any water-rate payer, or by any other authorized person or persons, and on due conviction thereof by any Court of competent jurisdiction, shall be adjudged to forfeit its franchise, rights, privileges, and water demands and claims.

Sec. 5. All Acts and parts of Acts in conflict with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 6. This Act shall take effect and be in force from and after the date of its passage.

The heavy weight committee of Sheriffs appointed by the convention held here on Wednesday, prepared to-day a bill providing that the per diem allowance of $5 while transporting criminal or insane persons to State institutions shall be the property of the Sheriff, and was intrusted to Assemblyman Alexander for introduction and management. Mr. Alexander presented the bill and caused its reference to the Committee on County Governments. The original draft was sent immediately to the State Printer. The Assemblyman then requested the printer to hasten the work upon the bill, and made such a successful effort that the printed copies were prepared this afternoon and were ready for consideration by the committee this evening.

Uniform licenses for the sale at retail of intoxicating liquors is purposed in a bill introduced by Senator Meany. This bill, numbered 478, fixes the maximum license tax to be imposed by city or county authorities at $21 per quarter, and provides that said sum of $21 per quarter shall be payment in full for all State, county, city and county, city, incorporated town or township license tax therefor.

A good story on himself is as much enjoyed by Senator J. N. E. Wilson of San Francisco, one of the twenty-seven brainy men of the 120 men in the State Legislature, as a good story on Assemblyman Alexander or Senator Moffitt. He told in the train the other day a story of a letter written to him by a constituent in San Francisco. A part of the letter is as follows: "Please send me several copies of a bill relating to building and loan associations, introduced in the Assembly by a fellow named Storke and in the Senate by some damn fool whose name I do not know."

"I sent him the copies of the bills," said Senator Wilson. "The Senate bill bore the line 'Introduced by Mr. Wilson.' I introduced the bill at the request of Labor Commissioner Tobin. I have not heard since from my correspondent."

AMUSEMENTS.

Ermo, the Elf, has been attracting considerable attention at the Oakland Theater during the last two days, and Kate Putnam and her company have been making a deservedly successful engagement in Oakland during the week. Last night was the last performance of Erma, the Elf, and this evening La Honor Bonal will be put on. The company is most excellent, and Emerson is no small attraction. It is rather odd to see the old negro minstrel gags and jokes, and hear him sing his famous "Moriarity" with a face uncolored by burnt cork. The company will continue here only this and Saturday evening.

Eastern Star Entertainment.

An interesting literary and musical entertainment was given by Oak Leaf Chapter, Eastern Star, at Masonic Temple last evening.

FIGHTING FOR A CHILD.

A Mother Who Refuses to Surrender Her Little One.

Guiseppe Costa and his divorced wife are having a little time over who shall have the custody of their minor child, Louis, a boy of 7 years. Some months ago Costa obtained a decree of divorce from his wife in Amador county. It is said that she deserted him to share the company of another. However, in the divorce proceedings she made no defense, and Costa found little trouble in securing a legal separation. By the decree of the court the father was given the custody of Louis, while the wife was allowed to retain the custody of the 9 months old baby. But she had both children under her charge, and had taken them with her to Alameda, where she is now residing with mother. Yesterday Costa came down from Amador armed with a certified copy of the decree of divorce, and searching out the home of his wife in Alameda, demanded his son. He was refused, and was ordered to leave the premises. Then he sought the advice of attorney George E. De Colta, and as a result a writ of habeas corpus was sworn out in the Superior Court wherein Costa asserts that his child is illegally restrained of his liberty by his divorced wife. This morning the matter came up for hearing before Judge Ellsworth in Department 3 of the Superior Court. Mrs. Costa appeared in court and asked that she be given time to consult her attorney, so the case was continued until to-morrow morning.

IN THE SICK ROOM.

Woman's Intimate Relations to the Healing Art.

First Graduation Exercises of the Fabiola Hospital Training School Yesterday Afternoon.

It is not long since the care of the sick was almost exclusively the work of the superstitions. It was thought that when a woman had outlived her usefulness in all other vocations, she was a proper person for a nurse. We probably shall never know just how many times the best efforts of the physicians have been thwarted, and the lives of patients endangered by the carelessness or interference of ignorant nurses.

But this is rapidly changing. The modern training school receives as pupils only the young and vigorous and has raised the vocation of the nurse from one of degradation to that of an honorable profession, which in the sick room is second only to that of the physician. As a result, a new field of usefulness and activity has been opened up to woman, which is at once congenial and remunerative, and the standard raised by these schools is such that all must present certificates of good moral, educational, and social standing before being permitted to enter, and many who a short time ago would have spurned the idea of being nurses are now entering our training schools to obtain a knowledge of that which will not only fit them for the care of the unfortunate, but also better prepare them for the position of wives and mothers.

The one grand result of this new order of things is the beneficial effect it is having, not upon here and there a family, but upon whole communities. The first training school was established in Germany in 1836. England followed, receiving its great impulse at the time of the Crimean war.

In attempting to establish a training school in connection with one of our Oakland institutions it has not been thought wise to follow the example of some sincerely philanthropic persons, who have spent large sums for the erection of schools, separate from hospital work, where regular courses of lectures were given with varying, in some cases doubtful, success. The course of instruction for nurses, combining much practical experience, so systematized as to bring each nurse into relation with different classes of cases, successively, but without too rapidly changing, until entire familiarity with all the details has been acquired, has been the course of the founders of the Fabiola training school. Brief, explanatory talks intersperse practical demonstrations. To this is added a course of reading. Theory is supplemented with practical experience, and practical lessons have been given in the kitchen on that most important subject, "Cooking for the Sick."

The above, and much more, said Dr. J. M. Selfridge, yesterday afternoon at the graduating exercises at the Hospital. On Moss avenue, near New Broadway, one pupil, Miss Trask, had passed through the required course of two years, acquitting herself with high honors, and receiving unstinted praise from her instructors for her faithfulness and zeal in the discharge of her duty. The going forth of the first graduate of so worthy an institution was truly an event of importance, and it was a pleasant gathering of invited guests that witnessed the presentation of the diploma by Mrs. D. B. Hinckley, the President of the association. Mrs. Dr. Burritt delivered the charge to the young graduate, and Dr. J. K. McLean, who was present, said a few words of encouragement to all. Timothy L. Barker presided and introduced the speakers.

The institution that is just bearing fruit is the result of long and untiring work on the part of many of our foremost ladies. It has plodded along slowly, but with sure success, for a number of months, scarcely appearing before the notice of the public. But now that its success is patent to all there are indications of a growing demand for membership. May the work prosper.

Vagrants.

Monroe Taylor, the leader of the notorious Twenty-third avenue gang of hoodlums, pleaded not guilty to a charge of vagrancy this morning, and had his case set for trial by jury on March 12th. Charles Guestestor and H. Hoffman, two of the trio arrested by Officer Greenwald at West Oakland a few nights ago on the same charge, pleaded guilty and were sent below for thirty days.

Kreyenhagen's Funeral

A DUAL LIFE.

Williams of Wales and Blythe of California.

Interesting Light Thrown on the Blythe Estate.

Letters in the Deceased Millionaire's Handwriting—An Ante-mortem Conversation.

The contest over the estate of Thomas H. Blythe, a San Francisco millionaire who died several years ago, has since been in the Probate Court of San Francisco, and between one and two hundred claimants to his valuable estate have cropped up since his demise. These hail from the four quarters of the globe. Not very many months prior to the death of Blythe, Rev. Aaron Williams, at present a resident of North Temescal, formed the acquaintance of Blythe on O'Farrell street under very peculiar circumstances.

Those who knew Blythe in his lifetime knew that he was very retiring in his habits. He formed few acquaintances and made no friendships. He was very reticent to all concerning his antecedents, never volunteering any information on that point and parrying off successfully all attempts to pierce the secret of his early life. Not being, in any sense, sociably inclined, Blythe spent most of his evenings in walking around his property, constituting the gore bounded by O'Farrell, Market and Dupont streets. He would in daytime walk slowly around the block, and in the twilight hour he frequently would sit down on one or other of the many flights of stairs leading to the buildings opposite his property and survey the latter without apparently any fixed purpose in his mind except the personal gratification which the inspection seemed to give him. A short time before Blythe's demise the reverend gentleman mentioned above, who is a native of Flintshire, Wales, informed the writer that he had on a previous evening, stopped to converse with an old gentleman sitting on a door step on O'Farrell street, who turned out to be Blythe. Having a faculty for getting into the confidence of strangers without difficulty, Mr. Williams said Blythe was in a very few moments after this sudden and extraordinary acquaintance was formed talking to him in a very confidential way concerning his early life and the scenes of his boyhood and early manhood—of scenes which were quite familiar to both and of persons and places with which both were well acquainted. Blythe said that he was a native of a place near the town Ruthin, and he named several of his relatives. He said his true name was Williams, and admitted that Blythe was a name that he had adopted when he came to California. There was much concerning Blythe's early life and career came out during the conversation, and Blythe unbosomed himself during the conversation in a way that he probably never unbosomed himself to any one before. When Blythe died Rev. Aaron Williams communicated with Blythe's, or rather Williams's relatives in Ruthin, and they figure among the numerous claimants to the estate. The knowledge of the admissions made by Blythe to Mr. Williams is known to probably few. It has never received publicity before. It has never figured in evidence to the court, for the reason that thus far the tedious litigation over the dead millionaire's estate has been fought on technical lines, affecting more particularly the status of Florence Perry Blythe, the alleged daughter of the deceased, who was born out of wedlock, and the status of women who have claimed the relationship of the lawful widow. It is now brought out through depositions and letters and other exhibits submitted by Harvey Brown, counsel for the Williams heirs, to opposite counsel for scrutiny. A San Francisco contemporary says:

"Opposite counsel include all of the attorneys for the other 120 genuine English, Scotch, Australian, and Gypsy heirs of Thomas H. Blythe, deceased. These attorneys some time ago insisted upon seeing the sealed depositions and exhibits filed by the Williams heirs, whom Brown represents. Brown objected on the ground that it could do no good, but would, doubtless, lead to the manufacturing of opposing evidence. E. F. Preston made an attack in demand, which was so strong that it won from one of the counsel the compliment that 'Preston was a sound lawyer,' with the accent on the sound.

"Preston's heroic assault was successful and those papers were ordered to be spread before 'the distinguished counsel for the other heirs.' Brown warned them that they would be unhappy if they meddled with his papers, and now that the examination has begun they are indeed unhappy. It is asserted that they find that the Williams 'heirs' are heirs; that Thomas Henry Blythe is none other than Thomas Henry Williams; that he has two sisters now living and a host of nephews and nieces; that, true enough, he left Liverpool in 1849, as everybody has been saying, and came to California under an assumed name.

"'This is a revelation,' remarked one of the attorneys during the investigation. He held in his hands a half dozen letters in Blythe's handwriting, in which John Williams of Liverpool was addressed as 'My dear brother.' Other letters were there, written to Elizabeth Williams Powell and Sarah Williams Roberts, which closed with these words: 'Your affectionate brother Thomas.'

"Near by was an insurance policy taken out by Blythe under the name of Williams, in the interest and for the benefit of his sister Sarah. This too was in the handwriting of Blythe. Close to this lay a letter written by Blythe to his attorney in Liverpool, directing him in certain matters relative to the insurance policy, and one also to one of the brothers on the same subject. There was also a letter written over the name of Williams from Chicago to his "dear brother" in Liverpool, speaking of his trip, his interests, and his relations.

"These letters run over a long period. Many of them relate to matters of which none but Blythe could be cognizant.

"The letters are connected together by the depositions of the living relatives and of various others, who trace the history of T. H. Williams from his birth in the town of Mold, Flint county, Wales, down to the day of his death. The depositions state that John Williams and Elizabeth Savage married and had five children. Two of the boys, John and Thomas, went to Liverpool and started a dairy. After some years of fair business success Thomas became heavily involved. Under the English law he became liable to arrest and imprisonment. To avoid this he fled the country. At the dock he announced to his friend and lawyer, Mr. Williams, that he was going to seek his fortune in a new world, and that there, in order to avoid the disgrace which might follow him under the name of Williams he was going to change his name. From California he wrote often to his relatives in England, always under the name of Williams, they never knowing until his death that he had gone under any other name.

"Years after, on one of his several trips to England, Blythe hunted up his 'old friend Williams,' and there told him of his adventures on the Pacific slope.

"The fact is already established by the depositions and the other evidence that Blythe lived a dual life. To his relatives in England he was always Thomas H. Williams, but to his friends in America he never was known by any other name than that of Thomas H. Blythe. His English letters are full of words of caution to his friends in England not to let his address be known.

"Two letters on the same kind of paper, written in the same hand, and bearing the same postmark, appear, one addressed to a relative signed as Williams, and the other to a friend in California signed as Blythe. It appears that this double life rather pleased him, and he kept it up until his death, and only a sacred few ever were admitted into the secret."

In view of the foregoing, the conversation which transpired between Rev. Aaron Williams of North Temescal—who, by the way, has no claim to relationship with Thomas Henry Blythe-Williams—and Blythe, a few months before the latter's death, acquires great additional interest, as it tallies in a great measure, if not in every particular, with Blythe's own story of his life.

The town of Mold mentioned in the papers submitted by Harvey Brown, is only a few miles from the town of Ruthin.

THE CITY WHARF.

An Investigating Committee That Does Not Materialize.

The Various Members Constituting It Fail to Arrive on the Scene Together.

A portion of the old City wharf was there. So was a portion of the new City wharf. So were a couple of reporters. So was a handsome young man in a blue coat, who was connected with the contracting company. That was all that constituted the investigation committee at the appointed time yesterday afternoon. The reporters sat down on a stringer and swapped lies with the handsome young man in the blue coat, who knew considerable about the newspaper business himself. For a long while nothing disturbed them save the rough creaking of the saws, the banging of lumber carts, and the hoarse coughing of a tug coming up the harbor. This was about ten minutes before three, and so the reporters sat and watched the sewers as they spread on the mud flats toward the water. The little ripples broke upon the slime covered stones, but still the investigators came not. It was about ten minutes past three when Contractor McDonald, one of the complainants, appeared on the scene. No one else was present except the reporters, and so Mr. McDonald said that he was in a hurry and could not afford to spend his time down there when no one else could. Then he went away. For a long time no one else disturbed the reporters. By and by the narrow gauge local train that left Fourteenth street at 3:15 o'clock came down, and with it came Councilman Harrison of the Wharf and Bridge Committee. Then the white hat of City Engineer Morgan was seen looming up through the crowd in the street. Mr. Morgan brought the information that President Bishop was too busy too come and the Mayor didn't come because the President couldn't, so the city business waited and took second place to private business. This was the second day that an investigation had been appointed, and the second day it had failed, and people began to wonder if there was to be any investigation at all.

Mr. Harrison was in favor of prompt action. He wanted the Mayor to subpena the President of the Council and the Wharf Committee, and those who had brought the charges, and then hold the investigation.

A man who was very loud in his assertions that the contractors on the wharf were all right, and that no investigation should be held, in the heighth of his indignation over the charges, remarked, "Oh, I'd like to be City Engineer a while; I'd show 'em." Mr. Harrison assured him that there were others in just the same box as he.

The handsome young man in the blue coat said that if Mr. Simpson wanted any piles pulled out he would have to furnish his own plant.

Then Mr. Morgan said that it would be impossible to pull out those piles that are in shore, and over which there is a contract. The only way to get them out would be to blast them, but he said that he had a diagram in his pocket of every pile that had been driven, and they could measure that.

Councilman Harrison didn't see how they were going to make an investigation under those circumstances.

It is the length of these piles that are in question, and if they can't be measured the investigation falls through.

When will the investigation be made?

No one knows.

Reese Gets the Chain.

The suit of Herbert Reese against L. Heckheimer, the pawnbroker, to recover the possession of a gold chain has been settled and dismissed. The plaintiff was given the chain claimed upon the payment of $15.

Broken Toys.

As I sit to-night in the firelight,
And dream of the long ago,
My thoughts fly back to boyhood,
And set my soul aglow.
Oh! dreams that long have vanished,
Oh! vain and fleeting joys.
Where are the hopes I cherished?
Where are my broken toys?

My broken toys—ah! Heaven,
Sadly my heart recalls
The dreams that once were dearest,
And over my soul there falls
A shadow, like mist at evening,
That drops without sound or noise,
And shuts me out forever
From dreams of my broken toys!

Yet I dream as I sit in the firelight,
Of one who was bright and fair,
With rosy lips and sweet gray eyes,
And wavy nut-brown hair;
But I sit alone in the gloaming,
For the angels share her joys,
And there's naught but the memory left me
Of my love and my broken toys!

Perhaps in the far off future,
When the weary years are done,
And the grave has closed above me
'Neath some fair eternal sun,
I shall see and know the reason
Why I missed life's sweetest joys,
And the pitying God in heaven
Will mend my broken toys!

A Beggar With Heart Disease.

William Jones, a healthy looking individual, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of begging, was in the Police Court this morning for sentence, but as Dr. Crowley had pronounced him suffering from heart disease, judgment in his case was suspended.

ROBBED BY SOLDIERS.

The Story of a Crime Told in a Will Filed for Probate.

The will of the late Thomas Robinson Bours has been filed for probate in the Superior Court by Manuel G. De Bours, Thomas R. Bours Jr. and Maria R. Bours. The petitioners state that the deceased had property in this county and in Mexico and in other portions of this State, of the value of $11,000. The will of the deceased is peculiar in some respects and reads as follows: "I, Thomas Robinson Bours, being in the seventy-third year of my life and in general good health and of sound and disposing mind and memory, calling to mind the frailty and uncertainty of human life, and being desirous of settling my worldly affairs and directing how the estate with which it has pleased God to bless me shall be disposed of after my death, while I have strength and capacity so to do, do make, publish, and declare this my last will, etc."

First—I resign my soul into the hands of Almighty God, hoping and believing in a remission of my sins by the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ, and my body I commit to the earth, to be decently buried without any funeral pomp and with as little expense as may be.

Second—I give all my property in Mexico to my beloved wife, etc.

The deceased then makes various bequests to his children and says: "I furthermore give and bequeath to my son, Thomas R., a certain claim now pending against the Government of Mexico for the sum of $14,678, abstracted violently in eagle dollars from my house in Alamos in November, 187 , by federal troops forming the garrison of the port of Guaymas, who having revolted marched on Alamos, placed my clerks in prison, and carried off the amount of money aforesaid, of which occurrence a formal protest under oath was filed by me personally with the Secretary of State, Hon. Hamilton Fish, at Washington, D. C., the 6th of March, 1872. Any amount, including allowance for interest or damages, which may be recovered on account of this claim, he is to distribute in accordance with the instructions given him previous to my last departure from Alamos."

Lastly—I solemnly declare that having never contracted debts in the management of my family affairs during all my long life, but having paid cash for everything purchased, I am not indebted to any one, consequently my said executors will have nothing to pay excepting, perhaps, some small doctor's bill, and the expenses of my funeral, for which I make provision, and direct that they be immediately paid.

The petitioners are named as executors and executrix in the will.

MURPHY'S ALIAS.

His Attorney Objects to the Name of "Spud."

The case of John Murphy, alias "Spud" Murphy, was set for trial before Judge Gibson and a jury in the Supreme Court to-day. The defendant is accused of the crime of burglary. When his case was called his attorney, A. A. Moore, read the information and objected to the alias of "Spud" Murphy, claiming that it did not mean anything, and asserting that the information was improperly drawn, and he therefore asked for the discharge of his client. His Honor denied the motion, and thereupon Mr. Moore took an exception to the ruling. The parties were not ready for trial, so the case was continued until 1 o'clock this afternoon. A long time ago Murphy sold Joseph Flannery, the proprietor of a saloon, a pistol. A short while ago he came around to the saloon and asked for the return of his pistol. The barkeeper asked him what he desired a pistol for, and he replied that it was a good day for ducks and he wanted to go hunting. However, he was told that he did not have any pistol in the saloon. That night the place was broken open and two pistols and a small amount of change was taken from the drawer. The police were informed of the theft and Murphy was immediately suspected of the crime. The next day he was arrested by Detective Holland, and as the officer approached him Murphy placed his hand on his hip pocket. A search revealed one of the stolen pistols—a large, old fashioned Colt's revolver—in his bootleg, and "Spud" was lodged in jail on a charge of burglary in the first degree, with a prior conviction. The prior will probably be dismissed.

A GRAVE CASE.

Peter Part's Prayer for Damages in the Superior Court.

Peter Part claims that he has been badly damaged by the actions of the Mountain View Cemetery Association, and he has therefore resorted to the law for relief. In a complaint filed in the Superior Court to-day he asserts that in October, 1886, he purchased a lot in the Mountain View Cemetery. In the same month his wife died and she was buried in the lot so purchased by him. He now charges that the Mountain View Cemetery Association, without leave unlawfully, wrongfully, maliciously, and with force broke and entered upon the lot and grave, and dug up and removed therefrom the dead body of his wife, and a stone monument and fence and plants of the value of $20. He claims he has been prevented from any benefit of the land and has suffered great pain and anxiety of mind to his damage in the sum of $25,000. He therefore asks judgment for that amount. S. B. McKee and Charles E. Snook are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

What a Convict's Sentence Should Be.

Charles Dudley Warner in the Forum.

A convict should be sent to prison and hard labor not for a definite arbitrary term, but until he is so changed in his habits that he is fit to take his place in the world again. If that were done, and society understood it, a released man would not find the doors of employment and sympathy shut against him as he does now, for he would come out with a certificate of integrity, industry, and intelligence. If he is so debased as not to be able to be changed in his habits and practices by any discipline, however long continued, then the prison is the place for him for life. We shall do little to reduce the number of the criminal class till we come to this conclusion.

THE P. P. C. CO.

Which Is the Pullman Palace Car Company.

Something More About the Golden Gate Special.

How the Pullman Palace Car Company Absorbed a Very Formidable Competitor.

In every probability there will be another Golden Gate special put on the road before many months. The officers of the Southern Pacific Company are not only willing, but anxious, that this should be done, and the trouble is with the Union Pacific officials. The Golden Gate special is now carrying from twenty to thirty passengers at each trip, which with the $20 extra fare makes from $400 to $600 extra each trip. This is very fair, considering the fact that the train has not been in operation for three months.

Some months ago, just after the first few trips of the Golden Gate special, the officials of the Southern Pacific Company asked the Pullman Company to give them an estimate on the time required to supply another train. The Pullman Company agreed to do it in sixty days. Since that time the Pullman Company has taken out three of the cars that composed the first Golden Gate Special and has substituted others for them. The combined baggage and pantry car, Golden Gate, has been replaced by the El [illegible], the dining car, Casa Monaca, has been replaced by the Coronado, and the composite car, Aladdin, has been replaced by the Sybaris. The three replaced cars are still in the possession of the Pullmans, and all that would be necessary to build another train would be to build two more sleepers, and this could be done in thirty days.

On Saturday there will be a change in the running time of the Golden Gate special. It will leave at 8 P. M. instead of 2 P. M., and will arrive at 7:45 A. M. instead of 9:45. At the same time some changes will be made in the rates. Heretofore one passenger occupying a drawing room has been compelled to buy two passenger tickets and two extra fare tickets. Now one passage ticket and two extra fare tickets suffice. Two passengers have heretofore been compelled to have three passage tickets, now two will be accepted.

Mr. [illegible] hopes that round trip tickets will be permitted on this train shortly.

A CONSOLIDATION.

But Two Palace Car Companies Now in Existence.

The Pullman Palace Car Company is a great corporation, and it is bound to be the greatest one of the kind in the United States. Notice has been received by J. P. Meehan, Pacific coast superintendent of the Pullman Palace Car Company, that the Pullman Palace Car Company would assume control of the Union Palace Car Company, and that the Pullman Company would operate the Union Palace Car Company with the following officers: John S. Runnells, General Manager, Pullman building, Chicago; Stephen Little, Auditor, Pullman Building, Chicago; [illegible] M. Gray, General Ticket Agent, Pullman Building, Chicago; J. F. Trout, Commissary; S. W. Bretzfield, Purchasing Agent, Mills Building, New York City.

The Union Palace Car Company recently absorbed the Mann Boudoir Car Company and the Woodruff Palace Car Company, and it cost the Pullman Palace Car Company $2,500,000 to absorb the Union Company, but it gives the former company a clear field with but one competitor, the Wagner Car Company, and a clear control of 150,000 miles of road.

HEADLIGHT FLASHES.

All the signal posts of the block system have been painted red.

Engine 250, to which has been added the extension front and [illegible], is now in regular [illegible] on the Seventh street track.

The men are still at work at the pier laying bituminous rock.

The railroad offices at the pier are so dark on these foggy days that lamps have to be kept burning all day.

The double track has reduced the work of the train dispatchers one half.

J. H. Woodard of the Alameda County Railroad has gone to Los Angeles.

Colonel C. F. Crocker says that one of the Pacific Railroad funding bills now before Congress should be passed and favors the bill of Senator Mitchell, which relieves all the roads at once. The Northern Pacific, he says, must be sure of the passage of one of these bills, because of the surveys they are making, and Senator Mitchell's bill will be a good one, because if the Northern Pacific builds to the Pacific coast, the Central Pacific will build to the Missouri river.

The operating department of the Southern Pacific Company is having an easy time in the mountains this season. Never in the history of the State has there been such an open winter. The snowfall at the Summit has been comparatively insignificant. Naturally, the trains are not obstructed in any way, the track is clear, and the General and Division Superintendents are happy.

The Golden Gate special, expected this evening, has forty-three passengers on board. Apparently the train grows more popular every trip. Quite a number of sections for the out bound trip have been reserved. The new time schedule will go into effect on Saturday, under which the train will leave at 8 o'clock in the evening instead of at 2 o'clock.

His Looks Didn't Save Him.

In pleading guilty the prisoner said that he was a married man, residing in San Francisco, and had been working in Sacramento. He lost his job up there, and had no money, so he took that means to get home. A fine of $10 or five days was given him.

Others in the cast are Miss Hunt, Mrs. Joseph P. Dyer, Kenneth Kar, H. A. Melvin, Arthur Banks, H. Livermore, and Arthur P. Hayne.

NOAH'S ARK.

Man's Disposition to Ignore Salvation.

The Scriptural Injunction to Seek the Lord.

Mr. Moody's Dual Meetings to Men and Women Last Evening.

Dwight L. Moody, the revivalist, is still the center of attraction for a large number of our church going people and others. Last evening both churches where he preached were filled to their utmost capacities. He was assisted in his services by George C. Stebbins, barytone, and by Miss Alice Dyer, Mrs. Dewing, and Miss Boobie.

Mr. Moody took his text from the seventh chapter of Genesis: "Come thou and all thy house into the ark." Noah had received intelligence to the effect that in a few more years God was to destroy the world and by the flood purge it from its burden of sin and wickedness. We may safely take it for granted that there was a deal more that was unclean and devilish in the world, for it was a day when men lived long enough to plot and to plan and to mature their schemes of the most hateful kind. Now, when we have but three-score years and ten to our portion—and God generally cuts down the wicked long before that—there is not the opportunity given the world to come to such a distressful condition as it was in just before the deluge. But then and now judgment never came to man without warning. If there had been a single cry for mercy, a single plea for salvation, a single evidence of the people's desire to give up the carnal world and accept God's ways, the deluge would have been stayed, even if repentance had come at the last hour.

"There is no doubt but that drink caused a part of the sin that was then on the earth. They had saloons in those days, and within their doors, as now, was the meeting place of the young and old, who came together and talked of the foolishness of this man Noah, who had begun work on the ark. And, too, there were theaters where the story of Noah and his ark was dramatized and burlesqued, and laughed at by thousands. And had there been reporters in those days, they would have described it at length and headed the article 'Noah's Folly.'

"But, apart from them that laughed at the project and scoffed the idea of a coming downpour, there were a sort of deists, believing that there was a God, but that he was too merciful to punish the world. And there were Atheists who recognized no God.

"But finally came the fulfillment of Noah's prophecy. The water began to fall and the valleys to fill up, and as the people saw escaping their hopes of safety, the ark became the most precious thing on earth. So, my hearers, shall it be with you. To you who scoff at the word of God, to you who believe not in God, to you who believe not in God's promises and refuse to take him at his word, the Bible and its teachings will one day be invaluable.

But by far the most important words in the text are the four, "and all thy house." God not only wants you, but he gives you a chance to save your little ones. Children must not be neglected. Parents, every child you have is a reason for your salvation. Are all the children within the fold? Have you done all you can for them. Those who enter the fold in early youth always make the best members. Your children will never forget the instruction of early days. It is the privilege of all to be co-workers with God in the work of bringing in our little ones. And they and the older persons—those "and all the house"—may receive the benefit of God's blessing, through the mercy of his son, Jesus Christ. It is indeed hard to see parents working so hard for money for their children that they may straightway go down to hell through its agency. Let us hope for better things. An opportunity is here given.

The sermon for men was given in three texts. The first, a question, "What seek ye?" is addressed to those who come to Christ with impure motives, to those who sought him that they might entangle him in questions of Mosaic law, to them that came for the loaves and fishes, to them that came out of mere curiosity, and to them who came because the crowd did. Those who sought him for what he really was were never disappointed.

The second text was an exhortation "Seek Ye the Lord." It don't take an anxious mind and an anxious Savior but a short time to come together. Don't be half hearted. "Seek ye," says the word. Obey it and the reward is ample and sure.

The last text is a command. It is "Seek first the Kingdom of God and his Righteousness," and to it is added the promised reward, "and all these things shall be added."

All these things shall be added. Is not the reward sufficient? What do we value more highly than life? And what ought we to value more highly than "eternal" life? Yet here is opportunity given to possess it. Opportunity to receive the gift of life in a city of purity, where there are no troubles, nor heartbreaks, nor sin, no gray hairs nor bending forms. Where youth is perpetual as life. The gift is without money and without price. It cannot be bought. It is yours if you will accept it as a gift. Remember this, and that it will be your own fault if you are not saved this very night.

A Lost Purse.

On Wednesday evening at the Moody meeting in the First Congregational church, or on the way to or from it, a lady lost her purse, containing over $50. The loser is in straitened circumstances, a widow, and a stranger in Oakland. The finder will confer a great favor by leaving the purse with the janitor of the church or at the house of the pastor, 520 Thirteenth street.

Oakland Honored.

The San Francisco Board of Trade has elected two Oakland gentlemen to the highest positions on the board. The new Board of Officers are: President, Isaac Upham; First Vice President, Jules Cerf; Second Vice President, F. J. Frank; Secretary, Henry L. Smith; Treasurer, James A. Folger; Attorney, Joseph Kirk.

Inquiring for a Lost Brother.

Captain Pumyea has received a letter from Anna P. Richardson of East Knox, Waldo county, Maine, inquiring for her brother Aaron S. Richardson, who formerly resided at 313 Ninth street, in this city. The writer has heard a rumor that her brother is dead, and writes for information which will lead to finding him if he is not.

A Finished Thoroughfare.

The grading, curbing, and macadamizing of Park avenue from Twelfth street to the city boundary line has been completed by the Alameda Macadamizing Company, at a cost of $[illegible]74.87, or at a rate of $2 19 per foot frontage.

Those who are afflicted with Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Throat Troubles, or, in fact, any such disease, incidental to this season of the year, will find immediate and permanent relief by the use of POND'S EXTRACT. It has cured thousands, and it will cure you. The promptness with which it gives relief is remarkable. Genuine is sold in Bottles only with Buff Wrappers.

Glenn County Orchards & Vineyards.

The foothills ought to be covered with orchards and vineyards. That they will yield bountiful crops of fruit has been demonstrated. That there is steady demand for fruit at a paying price is known. There is fortune for those who will put forth their hands to receive it.—Willows Journal.

The Chamber of Torture

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific effect, are yet very desirable at times. Yet can they produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should therefore be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, malaria and nervousness are relieved by it.

I have had nasal catarrh for ten years so bad that there were great sores in my nose, and one place was eaten through. I got Ely's Cream Balm. Two bottles did the work. My nose and head are well. I feel like another man. —C. S. McMillen, Sibley, Jackson Co., Mo.

For all forms of nasal catarrh where there is dryness of the air passage with what is commonly called "stuffing up," especially when going to bed, Ely's Cream Balm gives immediate relief. Its benefit to me has been priceless.—A. G. Case, M. D., Millwood, Kas.

A Dream of Empire.

The New York Tribune, discussing the proposition to purchase Lower California on behalf of the United States, is, we think, too ready to be convinced when it says:

> The young giant is stretching himself. There is talk now of making large acquisition of territory in a new direction. This is the purchase of Lower California from Mexico, a measure which the people of southern California heartily favor. Congressman Vandever believes that Mexico would sell the peninsula for $20,000,000, and the more willingly because it is now accessible from that country only through the United States. Lower California is 10 miles wide and 400 miles long. The mountains are very rich in mineral deposits, while the valleys sloping toward the sea are rich and fertile. The climate is said to be even superior to that of southern California. Alaska cost $7,500,000, and Mr. Vandever believes that we would not part with it to-day for $100,000,000. Lower California, he thinks, would be even a better bargain. The acquisition would certainly seem a natural one, inasmuch as Lower California is now practically a part of our territory and is cut off from Mexico.

We would not sell Alaska for $100,000,000, nor for any other sum however large, and we believe that Mexico feels about the same way toward Lower California. We are pretty certain that the land is not in the market, and therefore it is scarcely worth while to discuss the question whether it is worth the sum named by General Vandever. Mexico is quite as jealous of its territory as we are of ours, and the Mexicans have never forgiven us our acquisitions of their provinces whether by purchase or by conquest. The republic is not so badly pressed for money that it needs to sell a part of its territory, and it is not in the least likely to enter into negotiations looking to that end. But the best way to give this agitation its quietus will be to make the proposition directly to Mexico. The absurd proposition to annex Canada with its huge mountain of debt is being settled in a somewhat similar fashion. The people on either side of the line are against it and are beginning to say so very plainly. The day when the United States are likely to add to their territory, whether by annexation, purchase, or coalition, does not appear to be close at hand. These things are well enough as editorial dreams.

L. J. Rose, the Los Angeles viticulturist and breeder of fine stock, writes to the Times of that city making an appeal to the pothunter and the boy with a gun to spare his skylarks. He has imported twelve pairs from Europe and proposes to turn them loose to prey on the insect pest which now we fight with soap suds and Paris green and bad smells. He grows enthusiastic over the song of the birds, and quotes Shelley and Wordsworth to their glorification. If Mr. Rose can succeed in making these tuneful birds common in California, he will have done a public service even if the cottony cushion scale and the woolly aphis should turn up their myriad noses and continue to increase and multiply.

THE revelations of the informer Le Caron concerning the touching confidence of the Fenians and dynamiters in his faithful attachment to the principles of the Irish revolutionary party are enough to make the whole business of conspiracy ridiculous. The fact is that a conspiracy hatched in accordance with the rules of Cushing's Manual and a full parliamentary machinery, defended only by fool grips and passwords and hailing signs of distress and the other mummery of that sort, can never become very dangerous, although it may supply a comfortable living for such men as Le Caron of one sort and O'Donovan Rossa of the other.

THE latest story about the deceased millionaire Blythe is that he lived a dual life, figuring as Thomas Blythe on the Pacific coast, and as Thomas H. Williams in the correspondence which he kept up during the greater part of his life with his relations in Wales and Liverpool. The chain of evidence appears to be very strong to prove that Blythe was born Williams. If it can be established it will destroy forever the promising infant industry of raising orphans of the well known Blythe brand, and the question arises, What shall we do with his widows?

THE denial by the Democratic majority of the West Virginia Legislature of General Goff's undoubted right to be Governor of the State may lead to very serious complications after March 4th. If the Democrats persist there will certainly be a dual Government in West Virginia after that date, and the Federal Government may be called on to interfere.

THE population of the United States at the beginning of the present year was estimated at 64,300,000, and it is expected that when the census comes to be taken next year the figure will be 67,000,000.

A Sensational Article.

The article in the Contemporary Review attacking the Bismarcks, old and young, is the political sensation of the day in Europe. The Review has been suppressed in Germany, after their amiable fashion, and that, of course, stimulates curiosity. The article is not signed, but it is understood to be the work of Editor Stead of the Pall Mall Gazette. Some idea of its scope may be gathered from an extract:

"We shall have no more petticoats meddling in politics now." Such, except that petticoats is substituted for a word too coarse to print, was the characteristic exclamation which burst from the lips of Count Herbert Bismarck on the death of the Emperor Frederick. The remark was as significant as it was characteristic. Count Herbert Bismarck, the pivot in the action of the piece now being played out, scene after scene, by the relentless fates, is the son of his father. That is his only distinction, for the father happens to be a great power in the new German Empire, and Herbert is his heir. A desire to secure the succession of the Chancellorship to Count Herbert is the clue to the policy of Prince Bismarck, without which it appears an inexplicable tangle of brutalities.

The idea is to make it clear that Bismarck means to establish his family as hereditary chancellors of the German empire and is now busy making the way smooth for his son, Count Herbert. Then follows a bitter assault upon Count Herbert, whose record is surely vulnerable enough from at least one point of view. The half concealed efforts to hasten the death of the Emperor Frederick are recited, the persecution of the Empress Victoria, the brutality and boorishness of William II. All this is not particularly new, but it has not before been collected and presented with such bitter grace. The writer concludes that Bismarck has reached such supreme power as to have lost his sagacity and that Count Herbert has inherited only his father's brutality.

Professor McDonald's Unclassified Freight

San Luis Obispo Tribune.

A little discussion occurred at the depot yesterday when Professor McDonald presented his skeleton for shipment. The question arose as to what class of freight it was. It certainly was not common freight; it was not livestock; it could not be baggage; it was not a dead body; it was not grain; it was not merchandise—what was it? In the schedule there was no provision made for shipping skeletons; and it must be shipped. On the arrival of an invoice of coffins for the new undertaking establishment which is now being fitted up, Mr. Fogarty was instructed to assist in handling them, but that gentleman quickly crossed himself and fled from the warehouse.

Remarkable Effects of a Blizzard.

Helena Herald.

A rather strange affliction happened to a Minnesota couple who were sleigh riding. The young man's right ear and the lady's left ear were frosted, while the other two were not cold at all. Why all four ears were not frosted is a problem which has been submitted to the High school class in physiology.

A PAWNSHOP

Is What the Plan of Redemption is Like.

W. J. Colville continued his series of lectures on Theosophy last evening, the subject being the "Philosopher's Stone and the Elixir of Life."

Mr. Colville began by making a distinction between soul and matter, and he agreed with Longfellow when he said: "Dust thou art, to dust returneth, was not spoken of the soul." The first chapter of the book of Genesis is devoted to God, and the second to man, so that the spiritual creation is the subject of the first and after that the creation of man force is the manifestation of man, and matter is the manifestation of force, and therefore the work of creation was the work of manifestation.

God made all things, and all things are included in man, for all lower objects are included in a higher. Therefore we come to the conclusion that involution is the recognition of cause, and evolution the recognition of effect. If we can grasp the idea of spiritual creation and a complete spiritual existence before a material one, we can look at the relation between the two in the same manner as we consider the seed and the plant. The seed is the spirit, which falls into a physical expression, and in the mystical sense the paradise which we have forfeited is the abode which we have known long ago. The spiritual man existed long before any physical expression had been formed, and therefore the pre-existence spiritual paradise is the one referred to. He continued that the work of redemption was very much like a pawnbroker's transaction. We did not or could not redeem ourselves, and Christ did it for us.

The philosopher's stone was a white marble stone of great power, but it in reality meant that stone in the character that leads one upward and made one better. The philosopher's stone is that part of our character that teaches us how to improve in all ways, and, therefore it is almost as good as the philosopher's stone of fable.

We must also discover how to live and improve our thoughts, and thus reach a better and a higher life. We must account for every idle word. We have, above all things, to discover the right method of living and thinking. The development of our human body begins with the electric germ of life, which is the center of our organism, and as our physic perception becomes clear we shall understand how we can throw the full force of our vitality in any direction we wish, and we shall indeed have tested the true elixir of life.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

What Is Being Done for Oakland's Welfare.

The Board of Trade has been hard at work in preparing for the spring and summer's work. A meeting of the directors was to have been held yesterday afternoon, but it was postponed until this afternoon. At this meeting matters to be brought up at the meeting of the board next week will be discussed and the best manner of their presentation.

At the meeting next week two important matters will come up. The first is the changing of the name of the board. The second is the offering of inducements for the location of the factory of the Pacific Electrical Storage Company. This company has been offered a $10,000 site and $50,000 worth of subscriptions by the city of Sacramento. It is probable that the Hotel Committee will be heard from.

A Canadian View of Annexation.

Goldwin Smith in the Forum.

For my own part, I freely confess, that I not only recognize the ultimate decree of destiny (the union of the United States and Canada) but regard it as beneficent. With Home Rule which the Federal Constitution secures to each State, and which allows free play for local character and local self development of every kind as well as for local legislation. I cannot conceive that the union of this continent, for the purpose of internal peace and external security, could be anything but a blessing to all who dwell in it. Without being animated by any iconoclastic or revolutionary feeling against the British aristocracy, I should be glad to see Canada finally released from its influences which appears to me to be productive of nothing but flunkeyism, and while it interferes with the education of the people in the political principles on which a commonwealth of the New World must rest.

A FAKED FIGHT.

The Acme Athletic Club Exhibition.

A Referee Who Would Not Be Fooled.

A Scene of Excitement at the Clubrooms Caused by the Declaration of Referee Corbett.

For months past the members of the Acme Athletic Club have been looking forward to a boxing event which took place at the clubrooms last night. It proved to be an event in the history of the club which will probably never be forgotten. At the appointed hour the sports commenced to assemble. However, there were not many in number, as it was the slimmest audience that ever attended a boxing exhibition in this city. But those who had gone to the rooms had received a "tip" that the contest of the evening, which was to be a fourteen round battle, would not last that long, but would be finished before the stipulated number of rounds were completed. Such proved to be a fact. The fight was finished in five rounds, but not in a manner that was agreeable either to the audience or to the Board of Directors of the club. Early in the evening the sports gathered around the twenty foot ring which had been erected in the center of the gymnasium. After a wait of nearly an hour the master of ceremonies entered the ring and announced that the first preliminary contest would be between Messrs. Walters and Cleary, two slender youths, who amused themselves and the audience by their frantic efforts to knock each other out. For three rounds they engaged in a series of wrestling and running matches, now and then delivering a blow from the shoulder. However, the boys gave the best exhibition of the evening.

Then came Messrs. Van Court and Cooley, and engaged in a three-round contest six or nine minutes. They made the audience nervous by pushing each other with the gloves. Both these men are scientific boxers, but last night they seemed afraid to hit each other, and were satisfied with delivering "pet" blows.

Messrs. Sharpe and Kitchen were then called upon to engage in a three-round contest of three minutes each. Their exhibition was little better than the previous one, and the young men took particular pains not to hurt each other. So ended the preliminary contests, and it is needless to say that the assembled sports were not in the happiest frame of mind after witnessing such an exhibition.

The master of ceremonies then announced that owing to the absence of the referee the final contest of the evening would have to be postponed until that gentleman arrived. After another wait of an hour Referee Jim Corbett of the Olympic Club arrived and the final contest between Messrs. Stewart and Valpoll, two San Francisco pugilists, was announced. In a short time the principals entered the ring accompanied by their seconds, who carried buckets, towels, fans and all the accessories necessary in a well regulated prize fight. It cannot be said that either of the principals were very prepossessing. In fact, it would be hard to find a tougher looking pair in town. Their very appearance and style created a ripple of laughter as they bowed to the audience upon being introduced by the referee. The assembled sports looked with suspicion upon the fighters. It was with caution that they picked out the winner among themselves. The small gloves were soon securely fastened to the men's hands and Referee Corbet shouted "Time." The knights of the prize ring advanced toward each other with fire in their eyes. They worked fiercely at each other. Then they made vicious feints at one another. At last the agony of the first round was over, just two blows having been exchanged. The second round was a repetition of the first, even a little worse. In the third round Stewart attempted to make his opponent fight, but it was useless. Valpoll declined to be slaughtered for the amusement of the Acme athletes, evidently believing in the assertion that "he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day." The audience commenced to show their disgust and disappointment. Referee Corbett carried a sick smile on his face. Finally the tactics of the men were of such a character that it became apparent that they did not mean to fight. Referee Corbett then remarked: "Gentlemen, this is a dead fake. These men won't fight. Do you want to sit here and see those two fools fake a fight. Where is the Board of Directors of this club?"

The crowd cried to give the men another chance, and the referee acquiesced to the demand, and admonished the pugilists that they must fight or the contest would be stopped. Another round did not change the condition of affairs. Referee Corbett again pronounced the contest a fake, and called upon the Board of Directors to declare the fight off. The directors held a hurried meeting in a corner of the room and decided that they were being trifled with. This decision was communicated to Corbett and he refused to further allow the men to "pull" and fool the unsuspecting sports. The fight was declared off. Valpoll became angry and commenced to swear. He announced in tragic tones that he knew his business and was not going to be told by Corbett how to fight. It was an exciting scene and confusion reigned supreme. Valpoll wanted to fight anyhow, and threw himself around in his corner of the ring like a mad man. However, after all these boasts he called upon his seconds to take off the gloves, and it seemed as if they could not get off the mittens fast enough to suit him. The fighters then left the ring amid a storm of indignation. The audience lingered long and discussed the situation. The Board of Directors were excited and no one seemed to have charge of affairs. One by one the sports departed feeling that they had been badly duped and thus ended one of the worst faked fights ever attempted in this city.

His death occurred last night. Accused of Wife Beating.

Benjamin Lambert appeared in the Police Court this morning for arraignment on a charge of battery preferred against him by his wife. Lambert pleaded not guilty, and informed the court that he had not had an opportunity to procure counsel, so his case was continued until the 8th ult. for trial by jury. The cause of the little family eruption is said to be due to the fact that Mrs. Lambert spends much of her time upon the streets which should be spent at home, and this brought on a quarrel, which led to the charge preferred against the defendant. Mrs. Lambert and a lady friend occupied seats inside the rail at the Police Court during the examination, but left after the case had been disposed of.

Chinaman Versus Austrian.

Ah Sing, the Chinese cook employed by Dr. Woolsey at his hospital, was tried in the Police Court this morning on a charge of battery preferred by Antone Cleeak, a young Austrian, who is also employed in the hospital culinary department. It was alleged that the Chinaman had struck the young man with his hand and later attempted to carve him with a knife. His Honor found the Chinaman guilty and fined him $15, which was paid at once. Both the plaintiff and the defendant required interpreters to translate for them.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The noon meetings, held every day from 12 to 12:35 o'clock, are having a larger attendance and interest than ever before. They are held for both sexes, and are attended by some who cannot remain over ten minutes. It is expected that all will go and come as it may suit their convenience. The meetings are conducted by various leaders.

Spectacular War Scenes.

Next week, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, a grand spectacular entertainment consisting of tableaux of war scenes will be presented at Dietz Opera House. The affair is under the auspices of the Lyon Post and Relief Corps, and a number of local people will assist to make it interesting and instructive. The proceeds will go to the benefit of the widows and orphans of our fallen heroes, and a large patronage may be reasonably expected.

In Memory of a Volunteer Fireman.

Flags are at half mast on the different fire engine houses in Oakland in honor of E. Kreyenhagen, who died Tuesday evening. Mr. Kreyenhagen was a member of an old Oakland volunteer company, and later of Engine Company 2 on Sixth street.

Piedmont Parlor.

Piedmont Parlor, No. 120, Native Sons of the Golden West, will initiate nine members this evening, and the members will afterward give a banquet at the Galindo Hotel.

GILMAN coal seems to give great satisfaction.

THE CREEK PIRATE

Turns up Again as a Petty Schoolhouse Thief.

Julius Hyer was arrested last evening by Detective Shorey who charged him with petty larceny on the prison register this afternoon. Hyer is accused of stealing an overcoat and gloves at the Oakland High school about two weeks ago.

Julius Hyer has quite a history as a petty thief, and his sentence no doubt will be a heavy one this time. He is the notorious creek pirate who robbed some of the yachts recently of valuables to the extent of about $1000. When his case was tried in the Superior Court a discovery was made that Hyers' father had left him considerable property at his death, which had been appropriated by his uncle, the executor of the will. Hyer was discharged from custody for this reason, and the trouble between him and his uncle is not yet ended. After his release, the prisoner went to San Francisco, where he became involved in criminal affairs, but was never placed under arrest. Recently, he came back to Oakland, and commenced his operations anew by going through the High school.

BURGLARS.

More Arrests Made by the Police on Suspicion.

Last evening Officer Williams arrested William Harrison on suspicion of burglary and had him booked upon the small book at the City Prison. Harrison is a suspicious character, who is believed to be connected with several of the recent burglaries about the city. George Anderson has also been arrested under the same circumstances and will be held for a few days. The evidence against these men is very conclusive, and when others are captured who are believed to have been implicated in the crimes charges will be entered against all of them on the prison register.

The police are still much angered over the attempt to get Charles Gage and George Ikeman out of jail on a promise to send them to sea. It is not believed, however, that the attempt will succeed as each has five well proven charges of burglary against him, and it is not customary to release prisoners charged with such serious crimes on trivial excuses.

For Sanitary Improvement.

W. T. Sagehorn has petitioned the City Council to construct a sewer on Sixth street, from a point 150 feet east of Madison street, to connect with the Madison street sewer. Mr. Sagehorn owns 75 feet of property that will be benefited by the improvement.

Emerson Discards "Billy" and Burnt Cork.

Lily Langtry a Success as "Lady Macbeth."

New Operas and Plays—Dramatic Notes at Home and Elsewhere.

The inimitable "Billy" Emerson has discarded burnt cork. The very thought of such a thing suggests the oft-repeated and thread-bare reference to the playing of Hamlet with the character of the Dane left out. But this is not all. "Billy" is no longer Billy, if the paradox may be permitted. "Billy" vanished with the burnt cork, and "presto! change!" we have Mr. William Emerson instead. Verily the Ethiopian has changed his skin and the leopard his spots; but "Billy" (beg pardon, although habit becomes second nature there is a time when such familiarty ceases to be a virtue) William Emerson's melodious voice and happy expression remain to charm the soul of his auditors, such, at least, has been the verdict of those who have seen and heard "Billy"—there it goes again—William Emerson at the Oakland Theater this week. Emerson has not suffered, and his admirers have no special cause to complain because burnt cork has vanished, and the familiar soubriquet disappeared in the more sober and respectable name which he received at the baptismal font. Miss Katie Putnam and Emerson have formed a powerful attraction at the Oakland Theater this week. Lena, the Madcap, and Erma the Elf, have been presented in the order named, and In Honor Bound goes on the boards to-night. Miss Putnam first won fame by her charming rendition of the song "The Yellow Gal," and one of the interesting innovations of the week has been the repetition by her of this charming melody.

An unusual feature of the week's events in local dramatic circles has been the closing of the Tivoli, growing out of financial embarrassments. The suspension is, however, to be brief, for on the 18th Miss Rose Easton will re-appear in Under the Gaslight. In the meantime she is to appear during the coming week at the Oakland Theater in the Two Orphans.

Harmony does not always reign in the halls of music. Dreadful discords sometimes disturb the symphony, as witness the following: On a recent occasion Hans von Bulow, after conducting a rehearsal of Rubinstein's "Ocean" Symphony, a work he professes to dislike, remarked to the members of the orchestra, "that such music as that could only be conceived, understood, or directed by a man with long hair." When Rubinstein was informed of the circumstance he, with that suavity of manner so characteristic of him, smilingly expressed his surprise that Bulow should have so pointedly referred to the length of his hair, seeing that he had never in his life made the slightest allusion to his (Bulow's) long ears.

SPLINTERS FROM THE BOARDS.

Sweet Lavender will reach its one hundredth night at the Lyceum, New York, on the 18th inst.

By command of the "son of heaven," Shakespeare is to be translated into Chinese. What next?

Philadelphia so far this season has proven itself the best show town in the country for traveling companies.

Colonel Bob Ingersoll has been blackballed at the Players' Club, and giddy gossip says that Augustin Daly did it.

Mrs. Langtry's latest bon mot is that she has to borrow the sticks of Mrs. Potter's company to impersonate the "Bernam Woods" of her present cast.

The new opera, A Royal Tramp, now having a great run at Philadelphia, is filled with catching airs, one of them, "In Bohemia," being especially clever.

The dramatization of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which is being presented at the Broadway Theater, New York, is bringing to Mrs. Barrett over $1000 per week.

Twelve thousand new operas, it is said, have been ground out by Italian composers since 1835. Of course, the list embraces everything, good and bad alike, mostly bad.

Sol Berliner has presented Ned Buckley with a fine Jurgensen gold repeater watch. The smile with which Buckley received it is said to have almost changed the expression of the face of the watch.

Rubenstein is at work on a new oratorio, celebrating the miraculous preservation of the Czar and his family. The Emperor has signified his pleasure in permitting the work to be dedicated to him.

The President elect with his family, the new Governor of Indiana and his family, and the Mayor of Indianapolis and his family, visited the Indianapolis Opera House on a recent evening to see Minnie Palmer.

Revivals of Shakespeare are plentiful in London this season. Macbeth at the Lyceum, Hamlet at the Princess, Merry Wives at the Haymarket, Richard III. at the Globe, and As You Like It at the Croydon.

Helen Dauvray, who arrived in New York from Europe a few days ago, will play a spring season in One of the Girls and A Scrap of Paper, beginning at the end of February. She says that she has brought no new play with her.

It is whispered that a coalition between Joseph Jefferson and W. J. Florence has been consummated, and that John Gilbert and Mrs. John Drew have been engaged. The company will be known as the Jefferson-Florence combination. Mrs. Florence, it is said, will head a company of her own next season.

P. S. Gilmore, the originator of the great Boston Jubilee of twenty years ago, will conduct a series of anniversaries, commemorating that great event, during April, May, and June next. His famous band will have the assistance of Signor Campanini, Signorina de Vere, Madam Stone-Barton, Miss Helen Campbell, Signor Del Puente, and Myron W. Whitney, most of whom have sang to delighted audiences on this side of the continent.

Miss Maggie Mitchell's business this year with her new play, Ray, has been larger than it ever has been before. Next season her manager, William L. Lykens, proposes a visit to California and Australia, and probably to Europe, when Miss Mitchell will visit her daughter, Miss Fanchon Paddock, at present at school at Hamburg, Germany. Miss Paddock, by the way, has no desire to become an actress.

An important novelty at the approaching Paris exhibition will be Le Rossignol, a farcial comedy in three acts, by M. Eugene Gugenheim, which will be played in English and in French at the same theater. The play will be given twice a day—matinee and evening during June, July, and August. French and English versions will alternate. The American right will not be sold until after the first week of the run.

Another success at the Theatre Libre, Paris, is Reine Fiammette, a drama by M. Catulle Mendes. Mr. Mendes is a nervous man, and on the first night, instead of looking at his play, he paraded up and down the Boulevard Strasbourg, amusing himself in adding up the numbers on the hacks as they passed and dividing the total by the number of red headed girls and white horses doing duty between the Theatre Libre and the El Dorado. The result, curiously enough, proved to be the same, figure for figure, as the number of francs taken in at the boxoffice.

The legitimate is drawing good business to two theaters in New York. Mrs. Langtry undertook the dangerous experiment of appearing as "Lady Macbeth" at the Fifth Avenue with Charles Coghlan in the title role. But the experiment proved quite as much of a success financially as any of the many experiments Mrs. Langtry has made since her advent on the stage. The profits of her engagement are said to be quite as large as those of any previous engagement of the Jersey Lily in New York.

CITY TREASURY RECEIPTS.

Lots of Money Expected This Month From Licenses.

A large addition to the money in the city treasury is expected this month, which will come largely from liquor license receipts. One hundred and fifty-five saloon licenses fall due this month, which at the rate of $50 per quarter will bring in $7750.

Although the license ordinance provides that dealers whose sales exceed $2500 per month shall pay $75 license, no attempt to collect that amount has been made from any one. Probably only a few wholesalers sell to exceed $2500 worth of goods per month. This month there will also be due about $750 from Chinese peddlers and $250 from other licensed dealers, not including dog tags and vehicle licenses.

There are now 242 licensed liquor saloons and dealers in Oakland. When the license was put up to $100 per quarter the number fell off from 285 to less than 150, and when the compromise of $50 per quarter went into effect about 200 saloons paid it.

REUTER'S HABEAS CORPUS.

Trying to Avoid Paying a Fine Imposed.

Charles Reuter, the dyer, whom justice has overtaken, will make an attempt to avoid paying the fine imposed upon him by Justice Henshaw for beating a small schoolboy. He has sworn out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Gibson, which is made returnable on the 11th inst. The point

FIGHTING RUCKER.

If He Can't Fight a Duel He Can Assault an Editor.

DENVER, February 8.—Judge A. W. Rucker of Rucker-Blackburn fame, made an assault on Colonel John Arkins, manager of the Rocky Mountain News, about 1 o'clock this morning. Colonel Arkins was standing at the bar of the Opera House wineroom talking with Senator elect Wolcott and Chief of Police Brady, when Judge Rucker approached from behind striking at Colonel Arkins and knocking his hat on the bar. When Colonel Arkins turned Rucker stood facing him, a revolver in hand. The moment the blow was struck Chief Brady seized Rucker and had him by the arm when Arkins turned about. A police patrol wagon was called, and Rucker was locked up on the charge of disturbing the peace and carrying concealed weapons. He was fined by the Police Court Judge this morning. Rucker's assault was made on account of an alleged interview with Colonel Arkins in a New York paper during the Rucker-Blackburn controversy. [Rucker is the person whom Senator Blackburn of Kentucky denounced for writing a false interview, and who, it was rumored, challenged the Senator to fight a duel.]

THE PARNELL INVESTIGATION.

The Effort to Connect Parnell Directly With Outrages Disavowed.

LONDON, February 8.—Beach, alias Le Carron, testified again to-day before the Parnell Commission. He said it was Boyton, not Sheridan, whom he saw at the Philadelphia Convention in 1883. A discussion ensued as to whether the witness could testify what services Lonassey had rendered that the Brotherhood should support his family. During the controversy Attorney General Webster remarked that he was never prepared to suggest that Parnell or the other Nationalist members of Parliament were personally connected with the murderous outrages committed in Ireland. His contention was that they were allied to people whom they knew, or whom they might have known if they had inquired, had been for years prominently connected with the murderous outrages. He did not contend that Parnell and his associates planned murders, but they allied themselves with the Irish Brotherhood and availed themselves of the Irish Brotherhood money, although knowing the character of the organization. It had been proved that several Nationalist members of Parliament had attended League conventions in the United States, controlled by the Irish Brotherhood.

The real controversy was over a statement by the witness in connection with Lonassey that the subject of supporting Lonassey's family was introduced at the convention of the reunited sections, known as the United Brotherhood. The Court decided to admit the evidence on the ground that the United Brotherhood and Clan-na Gael and the Irish Republican Brotherhood were practically the same body, the united membership being interchangeable. It was proved that certain persons, including Egan, Brennan and Sheridan were members of the Irish Republican Brotherhood. The Court would not say how the evidence would affect the members of Parliament.

HARRISON SQUARE.

New Curbings and Crosswalks and Other Improvements.

City Marshal Tompkins has been doing some good work around Harrison square within the last two weeks. A new curbing has been placed entirely around the square, and the crossings constituting the approaches to the square have all been replanked. The next thing in order will be the cross plowing and laying out of the square and making new sidewalks. Major Tompkins has expressed a desire that the people of the Sixth ward signify what kind of a plan will be satisfactory to them, and the property owners of that neighborhood have expressed their willingness to leave the matter entirely in the Marshal's hands, satisfied that his good taste in landscape gardening will provide them with a handsome park. As soon as the square is cross-plowed the Marshal will proceed to lay the water pipes, which will be needed for irrigating the grass plots.

Must Wait a Month for Trial.

Pat Ryan, one of the hardest looking individuals ever seen in the Police Court, appeared there this morning for arraignment on a charge of vagrancy preferred against him by Special Officer Rhodes of West Oakland. He pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial, which was set for March 12th. Officer Rhodes says West Oakland is full of these characters, who beat their way in on the overland trains. He is determined to break up the practice of street lounging, and this arrest was the first of a number to follow.

Paul Acquitted.

Charles Paul, the young man charged with assaulting William Morrissey with a beer glass at Emeryville, was yesterday acquitted by a jury in the Superior Court.

ELECTION PRECINCTS.

What Number Shall be Established at the Next Election?

The new city charter provides that all elections shall be held in accordance with Title II, Part III of the Political Code. This part would make a very respectable book of itself, but does not explain how many election precincts the city shall have on the 11th of next March. At the last meeting of the Council a resolution was drawn up calling the election and providing for ten election precincts—two in the First, Fourth and Seventh wards, and one in each of the others as of old. This was not introduced, and it is said that a special meeting will be held on Monday next to call the election. There is some doubt as to whether the Council has the power to call the election with but ten precincts as the charter provides that no precinct shall have more than 430 votes. Section 1130 of title 2, part 3, Sub. 2 of the Political Code provides: "No precinct must be established, nor must the boundaries of one already established be altered within thirty days next preceding a general or special election. The thirty days will be up on Monday next, but that does not do away with the section of the charter providing for the number of voters in a precinct. City Attorney Johnson has not looked into the matter. Under the old charter thirty days' publication was required, but under the new ten days are sufficient, and this, Mr. Johnson says, is enough. There is a rumor that the call will not include a Police Judge or two City Justices. But Mr. Johnson says that the call should be made for those offices and let people object afterwards.

THE SHARON ESTATE.

New Complication in Mrs. Terry's Application for a Receiver.

The latest complication in the perennial Sharon case in which Sarah Althea Hill Sharon Terry asks for the appointment of a receiver in the place of F. G. Newlands, trustee, on the ground that the estate is being squandered by the latter, came up for argument and adjudication before Judge Sullivan in San Francisco this morning. The defense is represented by Judge Mesick, S. M. Wilson, William M. Herron, and W. H. L. Barnes. Ex-Judge Maguire and W. T. Baggett appeared for Mrs. Sarah Althea Terry. Mrs. Terry was present during part of the proceedings.

The matter came up on the substitute motion of the defense, that all proceedings be stayed by the Superior Court by reason of the injunction issued by the United States Circuit Court, restraining the plaintiff and her attorney from applying for the appointment of a receiver.

The hearing also includes an order for S. M. Wilson and William T. Herrin, attorneys for the estate, to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt in obtaining the injunction. The petitioner was represented by James G. Maguire and W. T. Baggett and the estate by R. S. Mesick, Messrs. Wilson & Harris and W. H. L. Barnes.

Mr. Baggett offered in evidence the inventory and appraisement of the estate of the deceased, which came into the hands of the executor, for the purpose of showing that Frederick Sharon had no interest in the estate.

Mr. Mesick opposed the offer on the ground that the Circuit Court had enjoined all proceedings in this court, and the question was the power of this court to proceed and violate the injunction of another court of higher jurisdiction. Counsel further argued that the evidence had no bearing upon the question under consideration.

Judge Sullivan said he would admit the evidence for the time being, as it could do no harm.

These sales have hitherto been immensely attractive to investors in realty. Last season's sales by the experienced firm were exceedingly populars, and the revival of these auctions by them this year will be hailed with pleasure by the public. The firm of Easton, Eldridge & Co., of San Francisco, will assist in the sale, which opens at Mr. Dingee's salesrooms at 2 o'clock.
